

RSP Licence Fee & Datafeeds Charge

RSP Licence Fee

The RSP Licence Fee is an annual fee payable by all third parties who receive a regular feed of RSP Licensed Data (fares, timetable and/or routeing guide data) and is determined by the frequency with which this data is supplied or received.

RSP invoice out the Licence Fee on the same date that both parties sign the RSP Data Licence, and will advise the Licensee of the Licence Fee for the following financial year by the end of February each year. The current RSP Licence Fee is shown below:

Frequency of Licensed Data (Core) Supplied	RSP Licence Fee
	2011/12	2012/13
Monthly	£1,001 per annum	£1,053 per annum
Daily or Weekly	£5,005 per annum	£5,252 per annum

RSP Datafeeds Charge

The RSP Datafeeds Charge is determined by the type of data and frequency with which the Licensee receives the following core RSP Licensed Data:

- Train Timetable Data comprising of rail timetable files as specified by RSP from time to time in document SP0036;
- Fares Data comprising of RSP fares files as specified by RSP from time to time in document SP0035; and
- Routeing Guide Data comprising of RSP routeing guide files as specified by RSP from time to time in document SP0037.

RSP Test Data - Proof of Concept or Test Purposes Only

A free CD of fares and/or routeing guide test data is available on request from RSP, in order to assist third parties in undertaking proof of concept work or testing activities. An RSP Data Licence is not required to use this RSP test data, because whilst the structure of the data is correct, the actual data itself is not necessarily the latest available.

Please note that as timetable data (updated on a weekly basis) is now available to download free of charge under an open style data licence at www.atoc.org/industry-data , a test CD of timetable data is no longer available from RSP.
